What Changed

Brand mark — correct tank+fish SVG, sized to header text	Replaced the fish navigation SVG with a hand-drawn inline SVG of the tank+fish brand shape: rectangle outline (tank body), wavy line (waterline), ellipse body + tail (fish). Scaled to match the cap-height of the header font. Theme-aware via CSS filter or stroke color. Note: the concept was correct but the style was wrong (outline vs. solid fill) — corrected in 11D.

Files Touched

File	Change
shared.js	LOGO_SVG updated to hand-drawn tank+fish outline SVG
style.css	Logo mark sizing adjusted to match header font height

Why It Changed

The fish navigation icon from Session 11B was the wrong brand shape. A hand-drawn tank+fish SVG was built to match the app icon concept. The user confirmed the concept was right but the execution was wrong — the mark needed to be the solid filled version from the actual app icon, not a custom outline.

Recommended Next Step

Next

Extract the actual solid mark from the app icon PNG rather than drawing a new SVG.
